"In between theory and practical examples from our sport, we had a lot interesting discussions with the professors and the group. I can highly recommend the European Handball programme!"

Mia Boesen, Event Manger at the Danish Handball Association
Graduate of the European Handball Manager 2016/17

Relevance & aim of the programme

The last few decades have placed heavy sporting and economic demands on handball organisations.

Handball coaches are in the enviable position of having many options for further training courses and qualifications open to them.

However, for managers of handball clubs, associations and leagues, nothing comparable exists on a national or international level.

That is where we come in!

The aim of the unique certificate programme of the European Handball Federation and the German Sport University Cologne is to provide the participants with a professional development course which meets modern market needs in this field.

The graduates of the EHM 2018/2019 particularly appreciated...

Course structure & content

The programme consists of five interdisciplinary modules. Each module comprises theoretical and practical parts which are taught by experts from various fields including economics, law, communication and psychology.

Module 1: Economic and legal requirements of team sport

- Economic features of team sport, value-added models in handball
- Special features of handball clubs, federations and leagues and the economic consequences thereof
- Sports law requirements

Module 2: Team sport governance and handball management

- Team sport governance
- Strategic handball management
- Labour law in sport

Module 3: Sport marketing and sponsorship

- Sport sponsorship management and sponsorship law
- Management of team sports brands
- Consumer behaviour in the sport of handball

“Due to the intensive exchange in this programme, I can say that we have benefited greatly from the lecturers’ expertise and have learned a lot from the best practice contributions given by the participants themselves.”

Päivi Mitrunen, Secretary General of the Finish Handball Association
Graduate of the European Handball Manager 2016/2017

Module 4: Financing and licensing

- Accounting of sport corporations
- Controlling of professional handball sport organisations
